Led by CEO Jeanette Aitken, Competency Australia provides training, assessment, auditing and management system development services, particularly in the railway sector.

They conduct specialist training courses and work with other training providers to make competency based training available that is focused on the needs of their clients. Competency Australia is always willing to assist in developing and delivering training courses that will help your staff achieve and maintain competency in their work.

Fully qualified assessors from Competency Australia can help you with the preparation and evaluation of your competency submissions, and conduct independent assessments of competence for your organisation.

As compliance specialists, Competency Australia assist clients in the development of safety management systems, quality systems, resource and competence systems or environmental management systems. They also offer auditing and gap analysis services.

Competency Australia has made the task maintaining competency records simpler by providing an online database to maintain your own records. You can add experience details to your work log as you go: these details are automatically added to your competency claims and indexed appropriately. Competency reviews and upgrades include data converted to the necessary forms and emailing to the assessing agency.
